

Visit to Grandey's Place, a centre to promote Heritage Crafts and meet artisans

Your Committee have arranged for something a bit different in March. We will be visiting Grandey's Place, a philanthropic venture created to help sustain and nurture the UK's Heritage Crafts, many of which are under threat of extinction and craftspeople often struggle to find suitable accommodation. Grandey's Place was created to change that and offers craftspeople space in light filled studios set within the tranquil Hertfordshire countryside.

We will learn about the exceptional and endangered Heritage Crafts and discover how artisans and makers not only create new and beautiful objects but also breathe life into the old.

We can expect to meet half a dozen craftspeople working in specialisms that may include globemaking, stained glass, costume making for Oscar winning designers, heritage knitwear and many other crafts. There will be an opportunity to purchase their work.

We will make our own way to Grandey's Place and detailed directions will be provided to participants. Car sharing can be arranged between members and there is adequate parking.

On arrival we can purchase coffee and home-made cakes to sustain us on our tour, and, if there is enough demand, lunch can be arranged at a nearby highly recommended gastro pub.

PLEASE TELL TAMARA IF YOU WANT LUNCH WHEN BOOKING

The cost of the outing is £25 plus your own cost of coffee, cakes and lunch. Priority is to members, but non-members can join if there is space at £35 a head
